

Read for a lifetime

Find great books for your middle or high school student

As children grow older, it becomes increasingly difficult to find books they want to read. With help from Pennsylvania educators, we have some tips and book titles to get your middle or high school student reading for a lifetime:

- Talk about your teen reader's interests to help identify books he or she will want to read.
- Librarians and English teachers are experts in this department. Ask them to suggest interesting age-appropriate books for your teen reader.
- Look for books that are Newberry Award winners.
